We will first head to the ruins of “Panama la Vieja” (built in 1673), then continue to the Banking Center and the shopping malls area. After that, we will go along the "Causeway", a pass built by the U.S. Army during the Second World War, as a strategic point for the defense of the Canal. Then we will visit the Casco Viejo (Old Town).

If the weather is in our favour, we can climb the Ancon Hill, which is the highest point of elevation in the city. From here you can see the entire city as well as the Miraflores Locks at a distance, which is our next stop, the Canal Visitor Center in Miraflores.
